

Sue Coleman

Sue Coleman has earned international recognition for her distinctive watercolours. Especially popular have been her interpretive Northwest Coast Indian paintings. These have been reproduced and sold to collectors worldwide. Sue maintains a studio in Cowichan Bay on Vancouver Island, Canada and paints a variety of subjects from misty west-coast scenes, wildlife, landscapes and more.

Sue actively works to promote environmental awareness and wildlife conservation. Her work is represented in Limited Edition Reproductions, Art Cards, Posters, Collectors Plates and several books, which she has both written and illustrated.
